

concerns so much as the campaign of "Peterloo," in to look out of windows, and would wipe his boots up on my coat and trousers in his perplexed efforts to get clean. I was not at all surprised to find that he had been in the usual way amongst the mail bags; there was the usual drunken man going home after his spree in town, and the usual friend of the coachman getting a lift, and was not to be taken away by any body, laying down the law, and kicking everybody who tried to turn in the most unbecomingly and inequitable manner. There was the usual woman with the flask, and the usual young man going to bed. There were the usual jobs, buntings, and the usual things, and I was not at all surprised to find that the usual shape that they took was not at all new. I was not at all surprised to find that the usual shape that they took was not at all new. I was not at all surprised to find that the usual shape that they took was not at all new.

not observed as a holiday it—they would not agree on nothing the kind, and, as you go, the wind blowing from the north, the two men, poor wretches, were battered, placed down at the fire, which was composed of some half-dozn sticks. In front of it was a figure of a man squatted down and tanning the hide of an old goat, and the two men, who were the guests, and certainly quite as battered. He was dressed in a light if not elegant style. A blue shirt, and a pair of, apparently, moleskin trousers formed the whole of his attire, the one and the other of a faded blue, and would have about the same colour as blue serge, and moleskin can be brought to a fineish off to the rest of his dress, or rather undress.

As I stood and looked, he put his hand under the tarpaulin that covered the dray, drew out a tin pipe and a black bag, and, taking the pipe, he seemed to draw it and draw it, with a hearty "Ho!" and a smack of the lips as he completed the operation. The scent, that borne on the breeze of morning came to my nostrils, informed me that it was rum. The man, being furnished with the means of his gratification, found the poor man engaged in his peculiar and characteristic occupation of drinking rum. It seemed and I felt my heart warm within me, and was half inclined to address him in the language of the company, "You are a good fellow, and I will be glad to ring his left nostril in English Sapsin. I already had it on my lips to say

Draw bullock-draw, what art thou doing here? Being furnished with the means of his gratification, Great is the dray, your halter has got a hole in it. So have your breeches!

But I hesitated, I thought I might not understand the Horatian meter, and might talk my marks and uncomplimentary. Still, he could not take offence at the words of the original—

—
DUM CORRESPONDENT A

And, as I treated this, half-aloud, his attention called to me. He fixed his eyes upon me with something like astonishment, and I almost expected him to answer—

"Huglo! God bless you, I have none to tell, sir."

Instead of that, all he said was, "Well, I suppose you'll know me again."

I was rather taken aback at this, for perhaps I had regarded him a little too rudely, so I hastened to make amends. "No," said I, "I have long known you by report and by description, — and I want you —"

"You want me?" he asked, and he would have turned pale, if he could have done so with the countenance that lay on his face.

"Yes," said I seeking to relieve him from his embarrassment, "I have long looked for you, — I wanted you —"

He rose up, and turning to the "day, about the "Bull," it all U.P. I wanted." There was a kind of grunt issued from under the tarpaulin, whether of astonishment, of information, or of negat; I am not in a position to say. My poor man seemed to be at a loss, if he asked me, "Well, old man, what's it for?"

"What for?" I exclaimed, for his quiet way bearing his wrongs annoyed me. "Are you so degraded, so lost to all sense of moral, social, political right, as not to know —"

"There there, stand it, old man!" he answered, "there's enough agin me to give me a bellow, or you need not go on a-talking in that way."

I was astonished. I have sufficient acquaintance with the "Bull" to know that he was the most decent, and I almost trembled as he cried out, "I say of bravado." Well, out with the d lies!"

from the Virginia Elements 123

[illegible]

Abstract

The Carlisle Journal records the death, at the age of eighty-two, of a man named Weale, who for nearly twenty years has lived the life of a hermit in the neighborhood of Maryport, Cumberland. About twelve or fourteen years ago he built a small open-roofed cottage, one room in size, in the woods of one of the two fields he possesses, and there he has lived up to his death, depending for the assistance of a servant to minister to his wants, though we are not told whether provided by his son. A dog, a cat, and himself were the occupants of this miserable hovel, which had no windows, and even swept out since its erection by the owner. Weale never went out of his house, and during the last two years he has been lame, and obliged to use crutches. Late!y he was barely able to get up, and his bed, which was close to the fire, and in the middle of the room, was so small that he had to lie flat, keep it alive, and bring him provisions three times a day. The dog and the cat ate from the same bowl, and he continued to cook his food with a tiring-pot, and to wash his face and hands fully cleaned out by his canine and feline companions. Weale was the owner of two fields, produced £20 a year, and upon this he lived.

au/pla news-page147

[illegible]

THURSDAY, 24th March, 1894.

Maguire's Celebrated American Mining Boots.
Maguire's Celebrated American Mining Boots.
Maguire's Celebrated American Mining Boots.

important.

To the Boot and Shoe Trade
To Country Buyers
To Shippers
And the Trade generally.

Without the slightest Reserve.

N. G. COHEN has been favoured with tructions from the importers to sell, at the 11 o'clock precisely,
Maguire's celebrated American mining boots,
as follows:
men's grade gilt-top anvil boots, not bottomed, size 1-6, 2-7, 3-8, 3-9, 2-10, 1-11
ditto ditto, and toe cap ditto ditto,
ditto ditto, and toe cap ditto ditto,
M in diamond W outside,
men's heavy boots, size
2-8, 3-9, 3-10, 2-11, 1-12.
ditto ditto, in diamond W outside,
M in diamond W outside,
men's boots, size 1-6, 2-7, 3-8, 3-9, 2-10, 1-11.
M in diamond W outside,
men's boots, size 2-8, 3-9, 3-10, 2-11, 1-12.
ditto ditto, 16 inches, ditto ditto.

the auctioneer, in leaving the particular attention and others to the above important sale of mining boots, would remind them that these purchasers should consider of this opportunity replenishing their present low stocks.

Terms at sale.

Kauri Pine.
Cargo of the Kato, from Auckland,
On Graham's Wharf.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, 23rd instant.

For Merchants, Builders, Contractors, Shippers, and Unreserved Sale.

H. THRELKELD and CO. have been instructed to sell by auction, on the Graham WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, at 4, foot selected kauri pine, comprising—2 x 3, 3 x 4, 4 x 6, 6 x 3, 6 x 4, 6 x 9, 9 x 12, 9 x 12, 6 x 2, 6 x 4, 9 x 3, 6 x 2.
For positive sale.
Terms at sale.

Leaf Sagar
Leaf Sagar
Leaf Sagar.

To close accounts.

CHARLES F. STOKES has been instructed by Messrs. Thacker, Dunlop, and M in diamond W outside,
M over X Sagar
M over X Sagar
M over X Sagar.

On account of whom it may concern.
Ex Clearmont, from Manila.

3181 Bags MO over X Sagar.

CHARLES F. STOKES has received instructions from Messrs. Thacker, Dunlop, to sell by auction, at Campbell's Wharf, at 11 o'clock, all 100 tons MO over X Sagar.
More or less damaged.
Terms, cash.

Freimasonry Notice.

Unreserved Sale of General Drapery, Sops, Blankets, Fancy Goods.

WEDNESDAY, March 23rd.

CHAS. TEAKLE has been instructed to sell by auction, at his Rooms, WEDNESDAY March 23rd, at 11 o'clock, packages general drapery, &c.
Particulars in our advertisements.
Terms at sale.

On account of whom it may concern.

Damaged Pipe Blankets
Damaged United States Blankets
Damaged Garibaldi Jackets.

WEDNESDAY, 23rd March.

Drapers, Outfitters, Storekeepers, and others.

CHARLES TEAKLE will sell by auction, at his Rooms, on WEDNESDAY, at half-past 10 o'clock prompt,
Cornwallia, Leeman, master, from London,
J M in diamond
—One bale, 20 pairs, 5-4 pipe blankets
Baling, &c.
—One bale, 49 pairs, 10-4 pipe blankets
Baling, &c.
—One bale, 15 pairs, imitation wool fustian, 1280 yards
Baling, &c.
—One case, 60 boxes, Garibaldi jackets.
Cuen, &c.
All more or less damaged by sea water.
Terms, cash, before delivery.

To Dealers and others.

ES OCTAVIUS BRADLY has been instructed to sell, at the Mart, on WEDNESDAY (corner of King and Cathedral streets), at 11 o'clock, furniture and effects, engravings, plates, glass, and sundries.
Terms, cash.

Disrupted for Kent
To Blacksmiths and others.

ES OCTAVIUS BRADLY is instructed to sell by the Bullitt, Lester & Kelly, at corner of King and Cathedral streets, at 11 o'clock, BRADLY next, at half-past 10 o'clock, milk's tools, consisting of bolsters, carls, and undry useful tools, &c.
Terms, cash.

Gold and Silver Watchos.
Gilt and Silver Watchos.
Faded Ware, Cutlery
Engravings, Books
Boxes Clothing, &c.

XANDER MOORE and CO. will sell
by auction, at the Labour Bazaar, Pitt-street, this day, at 11 o'clock,
the above.
Terms, cash. No reserve.

Under Bill of Sale.
Fancy Goods.

XANDER MOORE and CO. have received instructions to sell by auction, at the Labour Bazaar, Pitt-street, THIS DAY, at 11 o'clock, the above, consisting of pocket-knives, razors, butchers' knives, &c., spoons, steel pens, note paper, chess articles, various Library, and a great variety of fancy goods, too numerous to particularise.
Terms, cash—No Reserve.

XANDER MOORE and CO. have received instructions from the official assignee to sell, at the Labour Bazaar, Pitt-street, THIS day, at 11 o'clock, handsome hair comb and a gold brooch.
Terms, cash.

7

_____

